Assault on Japan's Navy Continues in Bismarck Sea Fight

Probably Dozen Enemy Warships Sunk or Damaged Thus Far

Southwest Pacific Allied Headquarters, Nov. 8—(AP)—Aerial smashes against warships and cargo vessels striving to reinforce the key Japanese base of Rabaul on New Britain have cost the enemy probably 12 warships sunk or damaged thus far in the Bismarck Sea.

A probable torpedo hit was scored on a heavy Japanese cruiser in Simpson Harbor at Rabaul by Australian-flown Beauforts Friday evening, a day after the first master blow in which aerial bombs sank two cruisers and damaged seven more plus two destroyers.

In addition, a light Japanese cruiser and a destroyer tender were attacked by night in New Ireland waters, but with undiscernable effect, and Mitchell bombers from Adm. William F. Halsey's 13th Air Force sank or damaged three small coastal vessels and 12 barges off southern Bougainville. Four more barges were destroyed off New Guinea by light surface craft.

(Tokyo radio broadcast a claim that 78 allied "warships" had been sunk or damaged in "the battle of Bougainville island" between Oct. 31 and Nov. 5. Allied reports have not mentioned the loss of even a single landing barge, although they acknowledged damage to some cruisers and destroyers in an aerial attack last Tuesday.)

Slight Retaliation

Again Vanakanau airdrome at Rabaul was bombed.

The only Japanese retaliation was an attack by 10 enemy bombers, with fighter escort, on positions in the Markham and Ramu valleys of New Guinea.

Ground operations on Bougainville and on Choiseful island 30 miles away which was invaded Nov. 3 apparently are progressing favorably, a spokesman for General MacArthur said, adding that it's up to the Japanese to make the next move."

The week-end operations on land, sea and air were the lightest since the allied drive to clear the Japanese out of the northern Solomons got under way Nov. 1, with the Bougainville invasion.

However, the comparative calm probably will prove more ominous for the enemy than for the allies.

This lull is less likely to mean that the Japanese, though grievously mauled, have nothing left to fight with than that the enemy is far too urgently occupied with trying to restore his defensive position in the South Pacific to indulge in further costly ventures against the allied spearhead thrust into central Bougainville Island, 240 miles from the bastion of Rabaul.

In one week the storm created by the 200-mile amphibious advance of General Douglas MacArthur's right wing has drawn into its vortex, to be battered out of immediate action or wrecked beyond hope of salvage, 15 enemy cruisers, 12 destroyers, 31 sea-going cargo, tanker or transport vessels, and 143 planes.

These figures do not include more than a scort of planes reported destroyed on the ground, aircraft listed as probably shot down, small coastal cargo craft nor barges.

How well the allied forces rode out the storm of their own makings was told in official American reports which admitted damage to several vessels but the loss of none, and the downing of only 36 allied planes in all surface and air actions over the New Britain-New Ireland-Bougainville area during the week.

Brilliant Diplomatic Dinner Held in Russia

Moscow, Nov. 8—(AP)—Fresh from his successful chairmanship of the Moscow conference, Commissar of Foreign Affairs Vyacheslav M. Molotov was host last night at Russia's most brilliant diplomatic affair since the war began.

The reception, dinner, and dance at Speridonifka Palace—scene of the 12 sessions of U. S. Secretary of State Cordell Hull, British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Molotov—capped the day's celebration of the 26th anniversary of the October revolution.

Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, accompanied by his daughter Kathleen, and Maj. Gen John R. Deane chief of the U. S. military mission, headed the American party. Every high-ranking diplomat in Moscow, including Japanese and Bulgarians, was present.

Increase in Wages for Non-Operating Rail Workers Urged

Washington, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Wage increases ranging from 4 to 10 cents an hour for 1,100,000 railroad workers were recommended today by a special presidential board with the approval of Stabilization Director Fred M. Vinson, but met prompt rejection from union spokesmen.

B. M. Jewell, chairman of the rail employes wage conference committee, called the recommendations "entirely unsatisfactory."

"We consider the proposals entirely unsatisfactory, and that they would destroy our whole wage structure built up through the years; the recommendations do not resolve our difficulties at all," Jewell said.

George M. Harrison, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, said the scale of wages would be "unacceptable."

The 15 unions affected, representing railroad workers who do not actually run trains or engines ,are now taking a strike vote. They are also relying on a congressional resolution to enforce an earlier award providing for an 8-cent increase all around.

The presently proposed increase, effective on regular payrolls Nov. 19, would be retroactive to Feb. 1.

Urge Resolution

News of the presidential board's report was received while Jewell and Harrison were appearing as witnesses before a senate interstate commerce subcommittee considering the resolution to get congressional approval of the flat eight-cent increase.

In response to a question by Sen. Reed (R-Kan) acting subcommittee chairman, Jewell said the new recommendations would have "no bearing whatever" upon the unions' support of the resolution.

The resolution sponsored by Senator Truman (D-Mo), would, in effect, declare Vinson's interpretation of the 8-cent award to be erroneous and permit the railroads to pay it.

Union officials would not comment for publication immediately on the situation.

Vinson said today he would allow also a slight upward revision of the recent 4-cent award to operating railroad employes in certain brackets.

Vinson Statement

Pointing out that under the new proposed wage scale, the higher paid "non-ops" will receive a slightly greater increase than operating employes who receive like pay, Vinson stated:

"I shall, therefore, advise the chairman of the national railway labor panel that if he receives notice of a proposed change for the operating employes which will increase their rates of pay by the amount of the difference between the increases for the non-operating employes in the applicable range of rates set forth and four cents, he may regard such a proposal as in conformity with the stabilization program."

Operating personnel have rejected the 4-cent increase, and like their non-operating fellow-workers are taking a strike vote in

Largess

Halifax, N. S., Nov. 8 —(AP) —A cigar-puffing exponent of the share-the-wealth theory swept through Halifax over the week end amid a shower of banknotes and checks ranging up to $2,000, which he distributed among servicemen, waitresses, bellhops and children.

The dispenser of largesse was believed to be the same man who went through a Toronto hospital only a few days ago passing out $100 bills to the patients. As in Toronto, his name was not disclosed by any of the beneficiaries.

His biggest donation here—a check for $2,000 — went to five-months- old Roy Whelan of nearby Timberlake whose father, a part-time taximan, had been driving the philanthropist about town.

"I think I'll give the little fellow a couple of thousand. It'll help give him a good education", the stranger said.

Nazi Abandonment of Port Near Rome Indicted by Blasts

Fifth Army is Poised for Sweep Up Valley of Liri; 8th Gains

Allied Headquarters, Algiers, Nov. 8 —(AP)— Repeated explosions in Gaeta indicated the Germans were preparing to abandon that port 70 miles south of Rome as allied headquarters announced today another mile gain by Americans of the Fifth Army in a push which threatened to short-circuit the coastal mountains where the enemy had anchored a new defense line.

The British Eighth Army, sweeping five miles ahead along the Adriatic coast against fierce resistance, took possession of the entire length of the Sinello river and advanced on the Sangro river, the next natural barrier in the area.

In the central portion of the Fifth Army's front, Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's Americans drove ahead over the roughest country of the whole allied line to achieve a gain of one mile and capture Calabritto. Gains of several miles also were registered beyond Isernia.

This first anniversary of the allied landings in French North Africa found the allies delivering stronger blows than ever to the Germans along Europe's southern front and the enemy displaying more weaknesses than ever.

Vatican City Bombed

The German desperation over inability to hold back the unspectacular but relentless tide was reflected not only in the rush to dismantle the port of Gaeta, but also, officers here believe, in the bombing of Vatican City on Friday night—an act which allied headquarters emphatically disavowed.

The view here was that this bombing, which the German radio loudly blamed on the allies, and hysterical appeals of the German broadcasts were an effort to bolster home morale.

Already the Americans had seized the heights dominating Mignano, opening the way for a push behind the Aurunci mountains which are the chief protection of Gaeta and Formia on the coastal route to Rome, the Appian way.

(An Algiers broadcast by Radio France said the Fifth Army already had captured Mignano, 24 miles northeast of Gaeta, and had advanced 10 miles north of Venafro, a gain which would place the Fifth Army to the northeast of War Fund $22,430 Short of Co. Quota

The drive for the Lee County War Fund goal of $35,000 will be extended for another week, it was announced at the War Fund headquarters today following the report that contributions received to-date are $22,430 short of the county's quota.

In several parts of the county and in some sections of Dixon, the volunteer workers have requested more time for their house-to-house solicitations. Persons wishing to make their contributions without waiting to be solicited in their homes may do so at the War Fund headquarters in the City National bank,

Mayor William V. Slothower and Sterling D. Schrock, co-chairmen for the drive, paid tribute today to the many volunteer workers and the hundreds of contributors to the Lee County War Fund. "These volunteer workers have given generously and patriotically of their time in this important cause, and their efforts have been matched by the generous contributions of hundreds of patriotic citizens in the county," they asserted. However, they pointed out many more contributions will still have to be made if the $35,000 quota for Lee County is to be realized.

Britons Are Talking and Betting on Possibility of An Early End to War

London, Nov. 8—(AP)—Heartened by good news from the fighting fronts and from allied council chambers, an increasingly large number of people in Britain are talking and betting on the possibility of an early end to the war—perhaps by the new year—despite a lack of encouragement from their leaders.

Prime Minister Churchill has asserted that it would be foolish to try to fix the date of Germany's defeat, and Deputy Prime Minister Clement Attlee has warned that it would be unwise to think of the end of the war as imminent.

Many people, however, believe that fear of a wave of over-optimism prompted these cautious counsels, and unusually buoyant predictions—all of them entirely unofficial—continue.

It is difficult to assign any definite reason for this development, but the Moscow conference undoubtedly stimulated a new burst of public optimism.

For one who likes to lay it on the line here are the odds quoted by one prominent Lloyd's broker:

Four to one against an armistice by Christmas.

Three to one against an armistice by February.

The broker said he considered himself on the bullish side.

Lloyd's doesn't handle bets as such, but you can get a "peace policy" which is virtually the same thing if you have something insurable—a shipbuilding business with war contracts, for instance.

First Snowfall of Season Takes Five Lives in Minnesota

Chicago, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Huge snowdrifts blocked highways in Iowa, Minnesota and the Dakotas today as effects of the season's first snowfall were felt in a seven state area.

In Minnesota 5 deaths were attributed to the storm. The snow there ranged up to 11 inches. A 12 inch fall was reported at Estherville, Ia., and at least 24 telephone circuits were reported down in the state.

In North Dakota the snow reached a depth of 6 inches and in South Dakto it ranged from 3 to 8 inches. Nebraska reported an average of 5 inches and a light fall was reported in Missouri and Wisconsin. Lower temperatures were predicted for all 7 states.

High winds prevailed on the Great Lakes, especially Michigan and Superior, and government forecasters predicted a maximum of 50 miles per hould would be reached tonight or tomorrow morning. Lake traffic was reported hazardous.

Upper Michigan reported rain which was expected to turn to snow tonight. Temperatures ranged betwen 35 and 40 degrees above but colder weather was predicted. A wind velocity of 35 to 40 miles per hour prevailed in the region.

FIRST LOCAL SNOW

Snow fell heavily in Dixon and northwestern Illinois late Sunday night but in most places it melted as quickly as it fell. It resumed falling during this morning and at press time was continuing.

The Chicago weather bureau predicted a hard freeze for this section tonight with lowest temperature of 20 degrees and near blizzard conditions and strong shifting winds tonight and 30 to 35 miles per hour Tuesday forenoon.

Ten Miners Perish in Blast in West Virginia

Nellis, W. Va., Nov. 8—(AP)—While one miner clung to life in a Charleston hospital, the inhabitants of this little Boone county mining community mourned today with the families of 10 men who perished in the explosion in Nellis No. 3 mine Saturday night.

William C. Barker, 59-year-old shot firer, one of two miners brought out alive, suffered critical injuries when the blast trapped an 11-member section crew in the American Rolling Mill Company's operation. Lawrence Vincent, 23, died last night without regaining consciousness 24 hours after he was carried from the scene of the explosion two and a half miles deep in the side of a mountain.

Japs Catch 3 Carrier Planes Unawares on New Guinea Airfield

Somewhere in New Guinea, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Japanese fighter planes caught three troop-carrier planes unawares as they strafed the runway of an advanced Fifth Australian airforce base.

One was on the landing strip. Another had just touched its wheels on the ground, and the third was coming down to land.

First Lt. Joseph L. Dunkelberger of New Bloomfield, Pa., said his plane was just coming down on the airstrip Saturday when four Japanese fighters swept in view.

"I lit out for the nearest foxhole," he said.

None of the crew was hit as the men scurried for protection.

New Orleans, Nov. 8—(AP)—At least seven persons were killed and a score sent to hospita's with injuries in a series of tornadoes which whirled through south Louisiana and Mississippi Sunday and Saturday night.

Louis Broussard, 38, Etienne Herbert and his eight-year-old granddaughter, Mary May Herbert were killed when a tornado struck Maurice, in southwestern Louisiana, early Sunday. A sheet of metal roofing was ripped from the roof of a house and found a mile away where it apparently amputated the legs of a cow.

Russians Drive on Beyond Kiev; Sever Line to Krivoi Rog

German Losses Mount as Soviet Advance Goes Unchecked

London, Nov. 8—(AP)—The Red army was rolling swiftly toward the Rumanian border today after taking the vital rail junction of Fastov, 35 miles southwest of captured Kiev, and thus snapping the principal rail link between German forces in the northern Ukraine and the nazis still battling at Krivoi Rog.

A Reuters dispatch from Moscow said the Russians already had driven 10 miles on beyond Fastov and were engaged in heavy fighting with nazi armored reserves rushed into the breach.

The mighty push, moving along at a speed of 24 miles a day, threatened to crumble nazi resistance in the Dnieper bend and raised the possibility of trapping huge numbers of the beleaguered Germans.

Seizing trainloads of undamaged German equipment at Fastov, whose capture was hailed in Moscow with 124-gun salvoes, Russian tank and infantry units also were reported to have swept up 70 towns and hamlets as they lunged toward Rumania, one of the nazi satellites which Premier Joseph Stalin said Saturday was "anxious to find a day" out of the war.

Anniversary of Revolt

In the Crimea, far to the southeast, the Russians said they killed 1,000 Germans in repulsing counter-attacks on their bridgeheads near Kerch and generally improved their positions in that area. German broadcasts said the Russians were bringing up infantry reinforcements on the Kerekop isthmus, northwestern gateway to the peninsula.

The 26th anniversary of the soviet revolution also saw the Red army driving to within 45 miles of the Latvian and old Polish borders on the north central front, where a Russian communique said the nazis were losing "one position after another" west and southwest of Nevel.

Nazi Positions Dangerous

The Berlin radio, admitting that the soviet smash southwest of Kiev had forced the Germans "to take up new lines," estimated that the Russians were using more than 250,000 troops in that area, while the nazi-controlled Scandinavian telegraph bureau, declaring that German blood was flowing as never before, said the attacks beyond Kiev had made the Germans' positions "even more dangerous."

Eastern Soldier is Held for Death of Friend on Thursday

Lewes, Del., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Deputy Attorney General Daniel J. Layton, Jr., announced today a charge of first degree murder will be placed against Warrant Officer Carl "French" Moulinie, in the shooting of his close friend, Warrant Officer John H. Worthington, in the latters' ocean-front home last Thursday.

Moulinie was called for arraignment later today, Layton said.

Worthington's attractive 25-year-old wife, Elaine, is being held without charge as a material witness, Layton added.

An inquest scheduled for today was canceled, the deputy attorney genera said, because "evidence is conclusive." Both Mrs. Worthington and Moulini have been quoted by Layton as saying that Moulinie held the pistol that killed Worthington.

Layton said Mrs. Worthington told him the shooting occurred after her husband accused her of "intimatcies" with Moulinie. He added that the woman admitted "a series of intimacies" but said Moulinie denied any improper relations.

Green Gives Praise to Schools of Nation

Chicago, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Gov. Dwight H. Green asserted today "allied victory will in large part be the victory of American education."

The free American form of government and education "now are being put to a trial by fire," he said, and the results "should make our hearts swell with pride." The governor spoke over station WLS in connection with American Education Week.

Green asserted "in wartime it is impossible to do business as usual, but the education of the future leaders of our state and nation is a duty that cannot, must not, be neglected."

He commended schools for their part in the war vocational training program and for serving as community centers for war activities.

'Ghost Army' Gives German Forces in Italy Real Concern

(Editor's Note: The following uncensored story, telling of what actually is happening in German-occupied Italy, was written especially for The Associated Press by Gunnar D. Kumlein, chief correspondent in Rome for the Stockholm newspaper Tidningen. He traveled by truck, train and airplane to return to Stockholm with the story.)

Stockholm, Nox. 8—Thousands of American, British and Indian war prisoners who escaped after the Italian armistice now are making their way southwards from Rome to meet the allied armies as they near the capital.

They are part of "the ghost army" which is adding immeasurably to German problems in occupied Italy.

In the wild Abruzzi mountains south of Rome the most mixed, cosmopolitan army which this war has seen roams almost at will. It consists of masses of Italian officers and soldiers who prefer to hide in the forest as guerrillas to being drafted into an Italian army which the Germans are trying to recruit, and thousands of Indian prisoners of war, once interned in a camp near Avezzano, 80 miles east of Rome, American, British, Canadian and Australian prisoners.

The presence of these hostile bands is forcing the Germans to stick to the highways, not daring to penetrate the bush-covered mountain slopes.

The "ghost army" lives in earthen caves and in huts made of sticks. For the most part the soldiers have no weapons, but they support the Italians in sabotage whenever they can. Italian peasants recognize members of the army and provide them food. The black-bearded Sikhs and blond Englishmen in return help the peasants dig potatoes, hew firewood and load it on donkeys.

Seldom Betrayed

Seldom do the Italians betray the hideouts despite the fact the Germans have offered 20 pounds sterling ($80) per prisoner.

A few days before I left Rome I had an urgent errand in a small Abruzzian village, 50 miles southeast of Rome.

Supreme Court May Clarify Tax Ruling

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 8.—(AP) — The Illinois Supreme court opened its November term today and may act within the next two weeks on a petition to clarify its September term decision that merchants can not collect the state's two per cent retailers' occupation tax "by adding it as a separate charge to an agreed price."

The high court may defer consideration until January or later, however, on the petition filed by Attorney Arnold L. Lund of Chicago. The court upheld Lund's client, Leslie M. Moysey of Berwyn, in his refusal to pay the so-called sales tax in a case involving $8.56 in a separate tax charge.

Lund declared "great confusion" followed the court's decision and subsequent interpretations by the OPA and the Illinois Federation of Retail Associations.

Another sales tax case challenges the right of the state finance department to collect the two per cent levy on supplies sold to hospitals and doctors.

Also docketed for consideration are sales tax refund cases of the Svithiod Singing club, Chicago, and the Sterling Lumber & Supply Company, Chicago. Previous supreme court rulings held they were not liable for the tax, paid under protest, but the finance department contended they were not entitled to refunds because they had passed the tax on to consumers.

Petitions of approximately 100 persons seeking writs of habeas corpus to obtain release from Illinois penal institutions are before the court.

Vatican City Is Damaged by Bombs; German Propagandists Blame Allies

London, Nov. 8—(AP) — German propagandists continued today their efforts to convince the world that Vatican City had been bombed by the allies despite an official statement from allied headquarters in Algiers disclaiming all responsibility.

The German-controlled Paris radio quoted Rome newspaper accounts as saying that fragments of bombs reported to have been dropped on Vatican territory Friday night had been identified as of British manufacture.

The Stockholm newspaper Aftontidningen, meanwhile, quoted Swiss dispatches as saying the German envoy to the Vatican had again offered Pope Pius XII haven in the tiny principality of Leichstenstein. The pontiff was said to have replied that he would remain in Rome "under all circumstances".

A Vatican broadcast said merely that an unidentified plane had flown low over Vatican City and dropped four bombs which caused considerable damage but no casualties.

The German attempts to pin the incident on the allies recalled warnings issued by allied spokesmen shortly after the July 19 raid on Rome by American airmen. At that time the spokesman suggested that the nazis might make a deliberate attack on the Vatican and then try to blame it on the allies.

Lone Nazi Plane Bombs London Suburb Causing Many Casualties Sunday

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Scarcely had the sounds of celebration died down in Moscow for the recapture of Russia's holy city of Kiev—one of the great victories of the war—when the cannon of the capital again were set booming a 124-gun salute for the Red army's liberation of the strategic railway junction of Fastov, 35 miles southwest of Kiev.

This fresh Russian assault, which today was driving down beyond Fastov, presents the harried Hitlerites with a double menace. It has severed the main rail communication with the German forces trapped in the Dnieper bend. It is thrusting dangerously towards Rumania, thus threatening to create another huge trap for the annihilation of still more of the invaders, whose losses during recent months have been colossal.

The victories emphasized Premier Stalin's declaration on Saturday night that Germany "stands face to face with catastrophe." The statement, made on the eve of the 26th anniversary of the Bolshevist revolution, may prove to be of greater importance to the allied cause than the great victories along the Russo-German front. It echoes the allied solidarity announced after the recent tripartite conference in Moscow—a solidarity upon which the peace of the world undoubtedly hangs.

The premier's speech ostensibly was a tribute to the war effort of the Russian people—military and civilian. However, he used it as a vehicle to convey many cogent thoughts to both friend and foe abroad, and the note of allied cooperation was strong.

The proof of the allied solidarity pudding naturally will be in the eating, but Stalin's speech leaves no doubt that the conference has indeed produced a marked improvement in the complexion of relations among the big three—Russia, America and Britain.

One of the things that impressed me most was Stalin's calm assurance of Russia's might. It was the certainty which one would expect to observe in the leader of a vast, self-contained empire which many close students of the situation believe will emerge from this war as the dominant power of the eastern hemisphere.

One gathers that Russia stands pat on her frontiers as they were when Hitler attacked the soviet union, a question which must have resulted in the burning of midnight oil by the tripartite conferees. In his speech Stalin declares that all Russian territory will be liberated, and in naming specific areas he brings in such states as "Lithua-

London, Nov. 8—(AP)—In one of the most disastrous air attacks on England for months, a lone German plane bombed a London suburban district last night, wrecking a crowded dance hall and causing many casualties.

A witness described the scene as "like a battlefield" with the dead and injured lying in streets littered with broken glass, timbers and bricks. Two emergency mortuaries were set up.

The bodies of many dancers were among those recovered from the wreckage of the dance hall. Many of the couples were allied servicemen and their girl friends.

It was not immediately known whether any American soldiers were among the dancers at the hall, a popular rendezvous for service men.

The German raider swooped and dropped his explosives just as hundreds were pouring into the streets from three theaters adjacent to the dance hall. A single bomb crashed through the second-floor hall into a basement restaurant. A whole block of buildings was damaged.

Offensive Continues

Meanwhile formations of allied aircraft roared out across the English Channel today to continue an offensive which American heavy bombers sustained yesterday by carrying out their third raid on Germany in five days and their first without the loss of a single bomber.

Coastal observers said the daylight attacking forces appeared to be composed chiefly of medium bombers, which have been used largely for hitting at nazi airfields and other military targets in France and the low countries.

The bombers were accompanied by swarms of fighter planes.

The daylight offensive followed night attacks by the RAF's speedy Mosquito bombers on objectives in western Germany a bombing of Abbeville airfield in France by Intruder patrols, and minelaying operations.

The air ministr said one bomber and one fighter were lost in the nocturnal forays.

Flying Fortresses struck into western Germany yesterday with heavy Thunderbolt fighter escort and attacked Dueren, site of important airplane parts and light metals plants. All bombers and all fighters returned from the 700-mile trip.

Conferees Fail to Agree on Draft Bill

Washington, Nov. 8.—(AP)—The first meeting of senate and house conferees on legislation to delay the further drafting of pre-Pearl Harbor fathers ended in a deadlock today.

The conference broke up after failure to reach agreement on a house provision stripping War Manpower Commission Chairman Paul V. McNutt of authority over the selective service, Senator Johnson (D-Colo) reported.

"We never got around to the provision in the house that would put fathers at the bottom of the draft list," Johnson said, "because the senate conferees would not agree to the provision that would direct the president to delegate all selective service authority to Major General L. B. Hershey.

"Some of the senators took the position that this provision would remove any authority the president now has over selective service."

No one knew when a second conference would be held.

Southern Plants Hope to Help Paper Shortage

St. Louis, Nov. 8—(AP)—Paper manufacturing industries in southern states hope to alleviate a newsprint shortage, members of a congressional newsprint subcommittee have informed the St. Louis Newspaper Publishers Association.

This assurance was given Sunday by Rep. Lindley Beckworth (D-Tex) who with other congressmen was enroute to Lufkin, Tex., where one of the south's largest newsprint plants is located.

A member of the house interstate and foreign commerce committee of which the newsprint group is a subcommittee, Beckworth said the pulp shortage had been under observation since July.

Sea War to Balkans

Meanwhile, allied headquarters announced the bombardment of Durazzo, Albanian port near Tirana, the capital, by two destroyers which carried the sea war to the Germans in the Balkans.

The gains on the Fifth Army front were made in the face of repeated attacks by the Germans who had increased their force to nine divisions, or approximately 135,000 men, in the front Italian line.

Montgomery's army also encountered several German attacks, mostly by tanks, in its push up the east coast. The Eighth Army's gains extended from the Adriatic to 30 miles inland where a three-mile advance passed Salcito.

Coordinating air assault with the destroyers' bombardment of Durazzo, allied bombers attacked the Yugoslav harbor, or Split and bombed Ulcinj on the coast south of Bar, in southern Yugoslavia, and north of the Northern Albanian port of San Giovanni Di Medua. Australian Kittyhawk fighter-bombers led the onslaught.

Medium and light bombers and fighter-bombers ad fighters ranged over the land battle area, hitting gun positions, rail communications, road junctions and troop concentrations. One aircraft was missing from all operations reported.

Bad weather kept big bombers of the U. S. 15th Air Force on the ground.

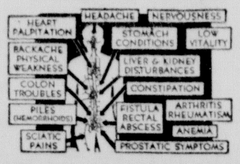

(Without any confirmation in allied quarters, German broadcasts yesterday declared nazi airmen had sunk or damaged 13 fully loaded troop transports and two destroyers in the western Mediterranean from an allied convoy carrying reinforcements and supplies to Italy.)

were German staff and armored cars.

The village was crowded yith evacuees from Rome and German soldiers recently defeated at Salerno and Naples. I was told that the first night after the Germans arrived two of them were shot from ambush by inhabitants of the village, who now are living in constant fear of nazi reprisals. But the only Germans I saw were too tired and exhausted to think of reprisals.

I went directly to a German officer who had commandeered a home where some of my friends in Rome had intended to live. I was surprised by the fact he received me very amiably. He assured me that his soldiers probably would not stay long in the village. I was struck by the "civilian official" air with which he received me, instead of the usual abrupt military behavior of German officers, especially when they are in the field.

But there was a reason—the commander was Austrian, as were most of the soldiers.

Americans "Decent"

"Tel. your friends who are going to live here that they need not fear the Americans when they come", he said. "The Americans are gentlemen and very decent people. We can assure you that after fighting against them as soldiers we learned to respect them as soldiers".

Later I talked with German soldiers on the village square about Salerno. One Westphalian, shuddering, said, "it was hell".

He wouldn't say any more.

Another said he had not been home in four years.

A third said: "The fighting around Naples was nothing compared with the torture of knowing my family is in one of the most bombed German cities and that my relatives cannot be evacuated because they work in a war industry.

Around Rome there is developing a strange, ghostlike atmosphere. Allied bombs thunder as they crash on German troop concentrations, airports, and railroad junctions but no air raid alarm is sounded. You can only hear the roar of the explosions and try to guess where the bombs hit.

Sometimes wind carries blackish smoke across Rome's crystally autumn skies after allied raids on the outlying districts, and the people say, "They—the allies are always described that way by Rome residents—hit the gasoline depot that time. Repeatedly people ask:

"When will they come."

Life Fairly Normal

The daily life of Rome is fairly normal except for long rows of closed, barricaded shops with planks covering the windows.

If you get a shop owner in a private conversation he will tell you the closings are "just for the period of transition—until they come."

Food shops have been forced to remain open, but have nothing to sell and bombings around Rome have cut off supplies, causing a critical food shortage in the city itself.

The quiet of daytime in deserted Rome is broken at night when mysterious happenings occur in the blacked-out streets. Although martial law prevails and no one is supposed to be outside, street skirmishes occur and often muffled cannon reports disturbed my sleep.

The Germans must walk through darkened streets in groups to prevent attacks. Often mysterious sabotage causes them trouble. Saboteurs are systematic in their work and are seldom caught.

You don't see much of the Italian fascists in Rome as the open city provided a welcome excuse for the fascists to transfer their ministries and military headquarters to Venice, Cortina, D'Ampezzo in the Tyrol and other small towns in northern Italy.

The Germans themselves make no secret of how they despise the Italian fascists. The German soldiers call Mussolini the "baby dictator" now because it was a stork—a Fieseler-Storh airplane—which took him to Germany after his liberation.

The German army tolerates the fascists only because of Hitler's friendship with Mussolini, who is now a very sick man.

Sugar Not Likely to Be Made Point-Free

Washington, Nov. 8—(AP)—Despite current large stockpiles of sugar, particularly in southern warehouses, there is little liklihood it will be removed from rationing in the near future. The Office of Price Administration said today that a reduction of sugar beet production this year by approximately 500,000 tons is the principal factor in this prospect.

MAJOR A. T. TOURTILLOTT

(Contributed)

Major Albert Thomas Tourtillott was born Sept. 27, 1858 on a farm in Sublette township and passed away Nov. 1, 1943 at the Veterans hospital near North Chicago, Ill., at the age of 85 years, one month and five days. He was the son of John D., and Mary Dexter Tourtillott, members of pioneer families who came to that vicinity from Maine and Connecticut in the early 1800's. He lived in Lee county all his life, with the exception of two years spent in California when a boy. After completing his primary schooling he attended North Central college at Naperville.

On Aug. 25, 1881, he was united in marriage with Miss Harriet E. Welch, who preceded him in death May 18, 1909. Five children were born to this union, all of whom survive to mourn their father's passing. In April, 1912, he was married to Mrs. Etta Clark who also preceded him in death.

When a young man he joined the state militia and served in the Spanish-American war as captain of Co. K, of LaMoille, spending the summer of 1898 in Puerto Rico. After the death of Major William Baldwin of the Sixth regiment, he served as major, receiving his commission upon his return to the United States, and in later years was retired with the rank of lieutenant-colonel. He was serving as supervisor of Sublette township when in 1906 he was elected sheriff of Lee county and moved to Dixon, where he has since made his home. Following his term of office as sheriff, he served four terms as state representative from the 35th district. He also served as chief of police in the city of Dixon.

In 1919, he was elected vice president of the Lee county Federal Farm Loan association, becoming president in 1921, which office he held at the time of his death. He was president of the Rock River Production Credit association for eight years, retiring as honorary member of the board of directors.

Fraternally, he was affiliated with several Masonic orders, was a member of Dixon lodge, No. 779, B. P. O. Elks and was active in the organization of Baldwin camp, United Spanish War Veterans.

Surviving is an only sister, Mrs. H. M. Eddy of Newark, N. J., who with her husband visited him recently. His children are: Alfred A., of Dixon. Arthur J., of Sublette; Mary E., wife of Dr. W. F. Aydelotte of Dixon; Minnie E., wife of Paul Mossholder of LaMoille, and Frank H., of Roscoe, Calif. He left eleven grandchildren and one great grandchild and a host of friends who cherish his memory.

Funeral services were held at the Preston funeral home Nov. 4, 1943 at 1 p. m. with Rev. R. R. Heidenreich of Woodbine, Ill., and Rev. Kesselring of Perkins Grove, officiating. Music was furnished by Mrs. Myrtle George and Mrs. Crawford Thomas, who sang, "In the Garden," and , "Abide With Me." Members of Dixon Commandery, No. 21, Knights Templar formed the escort. The honorary bearers were Spanish American war veterans. The active bearers were: L. S. Griffith, Leroy Miller, J. Wilbur Cortright, George Thier, David Wiegel and William F. Meyer, all of whom were associated with him in the Federal Farm Loan association and the Rock River Production Credit association. Military services were conducted at the grave in Union cemetery, north of LaMoille by his comrades-in-arms, the firing squad being furnished from the membership of Co. A, Illinois Reserve Militia, with Lieut. Ralph Lauer of Sublette in charge. Sometimes when the day is ended
And its round of duties done,
I watch at the western windows
The gleam of the setting sun.
When my heart has been unquiet
And its longings unbeguiled
By the days vexatious trials
And cannot be reconciled.
I look on the slope of the mountains
And o'er the restless sea,
And I think of the beautiful city
That lieth not far from me.
And my spirit is hushed in a moment,
As the twilight falls tender and sweet
And I cross in fancy the river
And kneel at the Master's feet.
And I rest in the shade that there falleth.
From the trees that with healing are rife,
That shadows the banks of the river,
The river of water of life.
And sometime when the day is ended,
And the duties he gave me are done
I shall watch at life's western windows
The gleam of the setting sun.
I shall fall asleep in the twilight
As I never have slept before,
To dream of the beautiful city
Till I waken to sleep no more.
There will fall on my restless spirit,
A hush, oh, so wondrously sweet,
And I shall cross over the river
To rest at the Master's feet."

Increase in Wages

Replaces Previous Award

The sliding scale replaces a previous award of a flat eight cents an hour increase in all wage classifications, which Vinson rejected.

The 15 non-operating unions originally asked a flat increase of 20 cents. An emergency board recommended the general increase of 8 cents last May. Vinson vetoed this. The president appointed a special board three weeks ago to rehear the case.

The new recommended wage scale:

All wages less than 47 cents an hour to be increased 10 cents an hour.

Wages between 47 and 56 cents to be increased nine cents an hour.

Wages between 57 and 69 cents to be increased eight cents an hour.

Wages between 70 and 79 cents to be increased seven cents an hour.

Wages between 80 and 89 cents to be increased six cents an hour.

Wages between 90 and 96 cents to be increased five cents an hour.

Wages of 97 cents and over to be increased four cents an hour.

The originally proposed 8-cent increase—which the carriers agreed to—would have increased payrolls $204,000,000 a year. The new recommendation is expected to cost at least as much.

Vinson's statement today said that half of the non-operating employes will receive eight cents or more an hour increase.

"In view of the fact that these new recommendations are consonant with the stabilization program I shall not disapprove them," Vinson said.

nia, Latvia, Estonia, Moldavia and the Carelo-Finnish republic." However, he doesn't mention the matter of borders but leaves it to the audience to interpret the speech.

Another major issue before the tripartite conference was the opening of a second front in Europe. There has been no announcement of just how this question was disposed of, but it obviously remains in the fore. The marshal, after expressing appreciation of allied aid, both on the battlefield and in the matter of supplies for Russia, underlined the importance of the subject after this pointed fashion:

"Of course, the present operations of the allied armies in the south of Europe cannot be regarded as a second front. Nevertheless it is something like it. It is clear that the opening of the real second front in Europe, which is not far off, will considerably speed up the victory over Hitlerite Germany. And it will consolidate still further the alliance of the allies with the U. S. S. R."

DIXON HIGH SCHOOL TO BE HONORED ON WGN "CITIZENS OF TOMORROW" PROGRAM

Phillip Reilly Will Be Named to the "Citizens Honor Roll" on News Quiz Program

Dixon, Ill., high school, whose history goes back to 1833 when a small group of settlers living around Dixon's Ferry hired itinerant tutors to educate their children, will be honored on the WGN program, Citizens of Tomorrow, Sunday, November 14, at 1:30 p. m. (CWT).

A few years later forty-nine citizens pledged and paid approximately five hundred dollars to be used in erecting a two-room building to be used as a school house in which to offer elementary education to the children of the community. The building was made available to all religious sects for meetings when it was not in use as a school house.

When the village expanded to the north side of the river, the villagers decided to set up a school system there, and it was not until 1919 that the two schools were consolidated. The merger resulted in a $700,000 high school which was completed in 1929.

Bernard J. Frazer, principal of the school since 1932, will speak on the school's courses for wartime training and will commend the large percentage of students who are doing regular volunteer work for war effort agencies as well as working part time in industrial plants.

Mr. Frazer attended Shelbyville high school and Sparks business college in Shelbyville, Ill. After teaching school for one year he worked in the office of the secretary of state of Illinois. He served overseas in the field artillery in World war I. After the war he attended Illinois college in Jacksonville where he graduated in 1923. Since becoming associated with the Dixon schools in 1924 he has been active in the Teachers' association, serving on state committees, acting as president of the Rock River division of State Teachers, and currently serving as a member of the executive committee of the State Principals' association.

Philip Maxwell, "principal of the air" and master of ceremonies, will conduct the news quiz and name two students to the "Citizens Honor Roll." They are Philip Reilly, 16-year-old senior at Dixon high, and Phyllis Wise, a senior at Von Steuben high school, Chicago. During the last two years Reilly has worked after school and on Saturdays in a men's furnishing store and, incidentally, has maintained a scholastic average of straight "A." He has been active in football, basketball and has won three tennis letters. For two years he was sectional winner in the State Latin contest and one year he won third place in the regional contest. Last summer Philip won a half scholarship to the journalism division of the National Institute for high school students, held at Northwestern university.

The a capella and mixed chorus, led by Edith Wagner, music instructor, will present "Dixon Loyalty," "Lullaby," and "Fireflies." Cheerleaders who will participate in the program include Rosemary McClain, Pauline Bay, Avis Leer and Donna Hanneken.

Beryl Vaughan and Bob Jellison will take the parts of "Jerry" and "Jimmy," the campus scamps who are constantly wisecracking. Harry Creighton is the announcer.

Among the guests at the program recording, which will be made in the school auditorium on Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 10, will be Mrs. Eustace E. Shaw, publisher; George Shaw, editor, and Robert Shaw of The Dixon Evening Telegraph; Mrs. Charles Walgreen, Mrs. Wilson Dysart, president of the high school P-T. A., Robert Warner, president of the school board; William Slothower, mayor of Dixon; A. H. Lancaster, superintendent of the Dixon public schools, and LeGrand Cannon, general contract agent and assistant to the vice-president of the Illinois Northern Utilities company.

Preceding the recording the Citizens of Tomorrow cast will be the luncheon guests of Mrs. Walgreen at her country home, Hazelwood.

STATE TO RECEIVE FAMOUS MANUSCRIPT AT SPRINGFIELD

Pennies, nickels and dimes totaling $60,000 and being raised by Illinois school children's contributions, will buy the original manuscript of the address that Abraham Lincoln delivered at Gettysburg. Ceremonies in Springfield on Nov. 19, the 80th anniversary of the dedication of the National Soldiers' cemetery at Gettysburg, will convey the manuscript to the Lincolniana of the Illinois State Historical library there.

According to Paul M. Angle, Illinois state librarian and Lincoln authority, who was a Dixon visitor recently during the State Historical pilgrimage held here, says that although the Gettysburg address is considered a masterpiece now, both as a statement of democratic faith and as literature, few who heard or read it 80 years ago gave it much thought.

HOOSIER PISTOL PACKIN' MAMAS!

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 8 — (AP)—Hoosier motorists, accustomed to taking traffic directions from men, soon will start taking them from women—women who will carry pistols.

Chief of Police Clifford F. Becker last night announced plans to employ women, in "regulation" uniforms, to direct traffic. His plan, which he thought was the first of its kind in metropolitan areas, would relieve badly-needed men for duties elsewhere.

NEW APPOINTMENTS ARE ANNOUNCED IN THIS COMMUNITY

Calls for teachers from the Bureau of Appointments of the Illinois State Normal university have more than doubled from 1940 to 1943, according to a report just released by Dr. J. W. Carrington, director of the bureau. Of 2,306 calls received by the bureau from Jan. 1 to Oct. 15, 1943, the available supply of teachers permitted placement of only 441 teachers in new positions, including alumni shifting from one position to another. As a result of the decreased supply of teachers, placements in 1943 represented a smaller total than in 1940 when less than half the number of calls were received.

"Teacher shortage is still a very acute problem," states Dr. Carrington. As serious as the situation was this year, the prospects for anything approaching an adequate supply of teachers for 1944 appears very dark. This is true especially of teachers for the elementary grades."

Among the new appointments in this community are the following:

Lee county—Vivian M. Barnes, music high school, Ashton. Charlotte Ruth Dethart, English and social science, dramatics, high school Dixon; Ella Mae Elgin, commerce, high school, Paw Paw; Clara K. Sinn, third and fourth grades, Loveland school, Dixon.

Ogle county—Clarabel Barrick, commerce, Community high school, Polo; Doris L. Howell, commerce, physical education, Community high school, Byron; Paul Wesley Jones, community recreational director, Mt. Morris; Aurelle LaVelle Ogden, social science, township high school, Rochelle.

Brilliant Affair Takes Place in Washington, D. C.

Washington, Nov. 8—(AP) — Washington society, largely under wraps for the duration, had a distinctly red-letter day yesterday.

More than 1,500 top-flighters in public life and the armed services climbed the scarlet-carpeted stairway of the Soviet Embassy to toast in vodka the 26th anniversary of the October revolution (celebrated Nov. 7 on the new calendar), the stunning new successes of the Russian armies, and the newly concluded Moscow agreements.

The new Soviet ambassador, Andrei A. Gromyko, and Mrs. Gromyko, the latter in black chiffon and sequins, received at this annually brilliant function for the first time and shook hands with one of the largest reception crowds to assemble in Washington since Pearl Harbor.

Vice President and Mrs. Henry A. Wallace led the procession of United Nations celebrities that moved through the drawing rooms adn picture galleries where great tea-tables, flanged by champagne buckets, were spread with sturgeon, caviar, turkey, chicken and hams.

A very special figure was Mrs. Cordell Hull, whose Secretary of State husband is now en route home from Moscow after conclusion of far-reaching accords with the Soviet government.

A Thought for Today

The wicked is driven away in his wickedness; but the righteous hath hope in his death.—Proverbs 14:32.

'Tis vain to flee; till gentle mercy show
Her better eye, the farther off we go,
The swing of Justice deals the mightier blow. —Quarles

Women to The Colors!

That famous old military appeal "The Army Needs Men!" has undergone a radical change in this war. For the Army now needs women as well, and that need is urgent, especially in the Army Air Forces. That is the message Lt. Gen. Barton K. Yount, head of the AAF Training Command which is in charge of the new Army Air Forces WAC recruting drive, sends to the women of this county. For the first time the AAF is out on a definite drive for more WACs, needed to supplement the excellent work of the 17,000 enlisted women who are now with the Army Air Forces. The present recruiting effort, which is systematically under way in every state in the Union, is the most sincere form of compliment to those patriotic women who, braving a "show me" attitude on the part of both the public and the Army, enlisted in the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps and then again in the Women's Army Corps, determined to show that they could and would make "good soldiers." For they have made good in a big way. Otherwise the Army Air Forces would not be asking for 46,000 more WACs—now.

The AAF has a list of 86 highly important jobs which it has learned from experience WACs can fill either just as well or better than men. Its aim is to fill these jobs, thousands of them, at air bases, flying schools, camps, posts, stations and headquarters, both here and overseas, thus releasing an equal or even larger number of men for combat training.

This is just what many women have been waiting for—a chance to enlist in the WACs with advance knowledge of the branch of the Army to which they will be assigned, and the kind of job that is waiting for them.

If you are in good health, between the ages of 20 and 50 and mentally alert, you are wanted. More than that. You are badly needed.

John Doe Speaks Up

John Doe has the right idea about post-war planning. A recently conducted poll by the Office of Public Opinion Research at Princeton university reveals that Americans of both major parties and all economic levels are in preponderant agreement on most of the urgent problems connected with our return to peacetime living. And the thinking behind this agreement is undeniably sound.

For example, 86 per cent of those polled favor a get-together of government, business and labor in banishing post-war unemployment, and 57 per cent believe that this combination can banish it. There is virtually no political or economic cleavage in these opinions.

Overwhelming majorities also favor maintenance of food rationing and price control after the war, if it is necessary to feed the starving people of liberated European countries;! favor the principles of social security; approve returning soldiers getting first choice of jobs, receiving financial help from the government to finish schooling, set up a business or buy a home. But only 25 per cent would pay the soldiers a bonus. Fifty-eight per cent voted for releasing men from the services only when a job for them had been found.

There are differences of political opinion, quite naturally, on the question of what to do with war plants built and currently owned by the government, but operated by private companies. The idea of selling the plants to companies now running them appeals to 46 per cent of those polled; 26 per cent would have the government keep the plants and run them, while 11 per cent favor a government-business partnership.

As to administration of post-war problems, 75 per cent vote for a central agency to handle unemployment, reconversion, demobilization and similar matters. And of this favorable majority, 87 per cent woul have labor, business and agriculture, as well as government, represented in the committee. However, 66 per cent feel that industry cannot solve the problem of post-war employment without government help, even though 73 per cent feel their present job will be safe after the war.

Eighty-two per cent of those polled have invested in war bonds, and three quarters of them plan to keep the bonds for a while and save their money.

All of this may be a lot of dull talk in percentages, but it adds up to some heartening conclusions. It is particularly encouraging to note this unanimity of post-war feeling in the light of all our present differences regarding rationing, price ceilings and general government control.

Whatever agency finally winds up with the tremendous task of leading us back to a peacetime economy can start out with the assurance of intelligent public opinion and the promise of co-operation if this poll is accurate. That is, the agency can count on these things if it follows the blueprint that public opinion has drawn. And it w ill look far to find a better one.

Civil Air Control

The House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, after studying the post-war sivil aviation problem for nine months, has drafted and presented three bills. Two of them are in substantial agreement on the need for federal control: the minority bill would safeguard state sovereignty by leaving domestic aviation control in the hands of the various states.

Now state sovereignty is a precious heritage that is bein increasingly threatened, and that needs safeguarding. But here, it would seem, is a case where state control might easily lead to 48 different brands of confusion.

If post-war aviation develops as it promises to and ought to, there will need to be uniformity in such matters as traffic regulation, safety, standards of installation and equipment, and ownership responsibility. Long commercial flights will be faster and more frequent, traversing some states in a matter of minutes. Intrastate air travel will be greatly expanded.

Unless both types of travel recognize the same traffic laws, real danger as well as countless mixups woul develop. For safety's stake, too, clear understanding will be necessary in the matter of control, dispatching, zoning and airport facilities, for emergencies as well as regular runs.

The war probably will leave us with a great many planes on hand, as well as production facilities for turning out many new ones. Some sort of strong regulation is going to be needed to see that these planes, if they are offered for sale, are in safe condition for commercial operation, and to protect the public from irresponsible operators who are certain to be attracted by new aviation possibilities. Another essential will be a fair set of standard trade and labor laws, if post-war aviation is to develop normally.

By all the rules of efficiency, these and similar considerations shoul be the federal government's responsibility. There will still be plenty for the states to do. Air traffic and commerce with the state surely would come within their province, subject to general reguations. And the same coul be said for such things as airport construction, maintenance and operation. But not much of a case can be made out for any proposal to extend state-line restrictions upward to infinity.

An Illinois judge ruled that kissing a girl in an auto is all right. As if most young men didn't know.

Discoveries only date back a few million years so the first coal strike likely is not among them.

The Doctor's Daughters

By FAITH BALDWIN

COPYRIGHT, 1943, NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: When Jim Thompson becomes Doctor Hall's assistant, he joins the Hall household. Emily, a Visiting Nurse, is glad to see her father relieved of night calls. Nancy, spoiled and bored, is delighted to have a young man around. Mrs. Hall, however, is afraid Nancy's attention will be distracted from wealthy Frank Edgar.

CHAPTER VII

AT the beginning of his third week in Cranberry Jim had fallen easily into the routine. From now on he would take over the night calls, calling David only if the case warranted a consultation. His time had been full, he had seen very little of Nancy. She was always out, it seemed. Frank Edgar came for her frequently. Jim had met and rather liked him, a big handsome man, his own age, or a little younger, with gay dark eyes and a square vital sort of face. Edgar had slipped back into civilian life with comparative ease and the only indication he gave that he had seen the war was that he never spoke of it. He never explained his injury but Elsie Edgar took care of that. Cranberry knew all about him and so did not have to ask questions.

The weather had changed, and become excessively warm. David, returning from a staff meeting at the hospital, complained of a chill. Jim put him to bed, and took over, despite David's struggles. There was nothing the matter with him, he'd be damned if he'd stay in bed. But he did, almost contentedly, because Millicent stayed home from her interminable engagements to fuss over, and read to him, to see that he took his medicine promptly.

Jim was driving back from a call when he saw Emily walking from the bus. He waved, whistled and slid to a stop beside the curb. She climbed in gratefully, discarding her hat.

"It's hot," he said, "and you look tired."

"I am. How's Dad?"

"All right. It's a light case. If we can keep him in bed he'll be as good as new by the end of the week."

She nodded. Presently she said, slowly,

"You think it's hot—out here? You should have been with me today. . . ." She looked at him, her eyes heavy with fatigue. "My job sometimes includes some of the mill workers' homes. The stocking mills. They're a disgrace to the town. I'd like to give Frank Edgar a piece of my mind."

"He'd rather have a piece of Nancy's mind," said Jim lightly.

She thought, gravely, So that's how it is. She had seen the look in his eyes. She said, quickly,

"They're old friends, of course, and Nancy was pretty bored till he came back and started taking her to the beach and the club." She changed the subject. "Were you at the hospital today, Jim?"

"Yep. . . ."

"You know about the polio case, in the mill section?"

He nodded.

"I'd heard."

"If we have an epidemic . . ."

WHEN they reached home she hurried to bathe and change before going in to see her father.

When she went downstairs again it was to find that Frank Edgar had arrived for supper.

"Hi, Emily," Frank greeted her, grinning.

"Hi—"

"Still the little goddess of mercy?"

"Absolutely."

He said, "I never get to see you. Look, why don't you come to the club Saturday night . . . you don't work Sundays, do you?"

"Not every Sunday."

He was staring at her. He was saying, "And you used to be such a homely kid! Nancy was always peaches and cream, but you—"

Nancy came in,

"Sorry," she said— "Hello Emily . . ."

"You needn't be," said Frank, "I was just making a discovery."

"What discovery?"

"Emily . . ."

"She's nice," said Nancy, smiling. "Lord, I'm starved. How's Dad, Emily?"

"Better . . ."

"I ought to run up and see him," Nancy told them. "I haven't been near him all day."

"Don't get too near," said Emily warningly. "Remember."

But Nancy was out of the room, was running up the stairs. A moment later Jim came out into the hall from the office and followed her. Frank said:

"The new assistant's smitten, isn't he?"

"Smitten," asked Emily, "what do you mean?"

She knew, however, and it appalled her to realize how much she resented, how much she hated, knowing.

"With Nancy. I don't blame him, she's a cute little trick. Emily, why won't you come to the club Saturday?"

"I thought that Nancy . . ." she began.

"Think again. I haven't asked her. I am asking you."

The club had been transformed into a canteen and as such was keeping up its regular Sa[illegible] night dances. Everyone w[illegible] vited but the emphasis w[illegible] servicemen from a nearby [illegible]se. Emily, however, hadn't been here this season. Had she a decent frock? She hadn't heard dance music except over a radio . . . she hadn't danced. . . . She drew her slender brows together while Frank waited.

"Be a sport," he urged.

"All right," she said finally, "if you're sure that Nancy . . ."

He said carelessly:

"There are a dozen uniforms waiting to take Nancy. . . . I hardly danced with her last night. . . ."

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

Washington—The first cold, detailed military accounts of Russian fighting are beginning to come through.

They show a picture of tactical skill and power developed by the Russians so far beyond accepted military practice that it probably will constitute a basis of all military texts for a generation to come.

It is far ahead of the German blitz efforts which so recently revolutionized warfare, although it evolved from that, as the answer and counter-stroke. If the Germans had the blitz, the Russians have a zitz.

Its one dominant characteristic is that it is indefinable and, therefore, yet unable to be matched. You cannot learn it from textbooks, none of which have yet been written.

The Russians are working and reworking it out from experience in stopping and then counter-attacking the blitz system of breaking through a military line with tanks and armored units to circulate swiftly in the rear of the enemy and demoralize resistance (France, Poland).

Strangely, it relies mainly on motorized artillery guns and tanks to the declining use of planes and foot soldiers. Probably the nazi dive bombing idea cannot be employed widely because the Russian system of penetrations and pocket indentations is so swiftly changing that the battle line not only runs like a constantly wriggling snake, but perhaps is indistinguishable from the air.

The basis of initial attack is the concentration of big guns. The Reds have used 150 to a kilometer. These, concentrated upon particular points in the nazi lines, literally have blasted them out of existence. Through the gap, tanks pour.

To meet this the Germans have, at critical points, constructed second, third, fourth and even fifth lines, each screened by mine fields in front, and each spaced about four miles apart, just at the end of the Russian effective artillery range from one line to another.

In short, the nazi defense line against the Russian mode is sometimes 20 miles wide. The Reds must penetrate this distance in order to break through.

Naturally, they seldom do, as the Germans start counter-attacks driving counter pockets into the Russian lines when they can on either side of the gap. So the Russians have worked out the swiftest system for abandoning their attacks, simultaneously starting another attack at wholly different points.

On one occasion, their plan of attack called for five alternate attacks at different sections of the line, and not until the fifth were they able to break through to find weak second and third German lines for an appreciable advance.

This kind of warfare makes for a mechanized melee. The carnage is terrific. The Russian guesses on nazi losses runs from 22,000 to 33,000 per day—that is more than two whole divisions willed to a man in a day's fighting, lost generally in these pockets and counter-pockets along the 700 mile battlefront.

The Russian announcements sometimes reflect the Slavonic dramatic temperament more than the cold military situation, but any over-estimation in these official guesses cannot alter the conclusion that this is war such as man has never seen before and the mind of man has never before contemplated.

The method in each attack varies primarily on the lay of the land. Indeed, in forests, both the Reds and nazis used the old-fashioned Indian tactics, hiding regiments of sharp-shooters in trees where tanks and big guns were useless. The only rule, apparently, is that there are no rules.

The Russian general staff will call off an attack in a minute and start another, even though commitments of thousands of men and much material have been made within enemy lines and must be left. No sentiment favoring personal methods of generals or the lives of men and the value of materials is apparent.

Best of the accounts so far is in the Field Artillery Journal for November in an article by the esteemed Colonel Conrad Lanza. He estimates Russian strength in action September 15, as approximately 4,500,000 men, outnumbering the Germans 30 per cent.

He says German resistance began declining September 1. He also predicted the Germans could not keep the Dnieper line, because they could not defend it.

Apparently, the strategic importance of rivers and natural obstacles is vanishing in this new type of fighting.

They'll Do It Every Time

Fair Enough

by WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Nov. 8.—The denunciation of a completely crooked and unmoral CIO union boss by Congressman Edward Herbert of New Orleans in an investigation of the sabotage of plane production for the Navy in the Brewster plants, will be the more shocking if it is thoroughly understood that this monstrous utterly selfish opportunist and draft dodger, Harry Posner, who calls himself Thomas Vincent de Lorenzo and other names, received his powers directly from congress and from the so-called labor policy of the Roosevelt government which has blocked every effort of congress to limit those powers. This man, who flatly said recently that he would rather let American soldiers die at the front for lack of planes than sacrifice "our rights", was legally the chosen representative of the 20,000 workers and the management and the Navy had to deal with him as such. The War Labor Board gave him a contract which deprived management of every shred of authority in the operation of the plants and allowed him absolute right to say which men should be certified as essential war workers for deferment in the draft. The management has been derated for inefficiency, but that charge cannot even be heard, much less proven, because the management was helpless under the contract. By the terms of the agreement this man could not only certify himself for deferment at the age of 35 but could shake down other draft-dodgers for deferments and blackmail men who were actually essential with a threat not to recommend deferment.

The Navy was helpless and finally was compelled to make a clandestine appeal, not to the FBI or the War Labor Board, but to individual newspaper reporters to expose Posner in the hope that the publication of the crook's record and character and the facts of the Brewster situation would cause an explosion that would blast him out. Mrs. Agnes Meyer, the wife of Eugene Meyer, publsher of the Washington Post, did the job in a report which covered a whole page. It was an excellent feat of coverage and presentation which did not fail to present the failures of the management and quickly resulted in a call for Henry Kaiser to take over as president of Brewster and placate Posner, both of which Kaiser did. He also got a new contract, however.

Mrs. Mrs. Meyer's fine work on the story could be criticized at all the criticism would be that she failed to run her man down, but that could be excused in a reporter who refuses to believe that unionism is infested with crooks. The Army already knew that De Lorenzo was actually Posner and had his police record, and presumably the FBI had him catalogued. But such is the power of the union bosses in league with the government that much information of this kind is merely filed away and not put to use. The labor relation agencies and the department of justice let them go their way, as legally they are justified in doing, because the Wagner Act takes the position that a crook is as good as an honest man, a Communist as good as a loyal American and a certified representative of a collective bargaining unit must be met as such regardless of his character. Kaiser knew Posner's record but he is a man who accepts the Wagner Act as the law and deals the best he can with crooks who are certified to him as bargaining agents, throwing the responsibility back to congress and the loss from union looting or time wasting back to the treasury. He doesn't try to fight them as the old Brewster management did.

Posner's record consists of one charge of automobile homicide and one indictment of turning out 2000 rioters at an aviation plant, in 1941, both dismissed, and fifteen traffic charges. Much worse, however, was his declaration, on file with the Navy, that "our policy is not to win the war at any cost. The policy of our local union is to win the war without sacrificing too many of the rights which we have at the present time."

He is only one of many upstart unioneers elevated to power by the new deal who have abandoned their original names and taken others for reasons best known to themselves. Another is Lewis Merrill, president of the CIO Office Workers' Union, which follows the Communist party line and is in a position to plant Communist spies in American business firms.

In one such case a spy got a job in the New York office of district 50 of the United Mine Workers and helped arrange a violent raid on the premises by Mike Quill and other officers of the Transport Workers Union which also follows the party line and representatives of Marshall Field's paper. The spy in this case claimed to have resigned from the union of Merrill, whose name was Louis Cohen when he came to the United States from Canada.

Walnut High Among Sixteen Undefeated Illinois Prep Teams

Win Seven Straight to Outscore Opponents by 110 to 32

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 8—(AP)—Only 16 perfect-record pacemakers were poised today for the final week of the season for many Illinois prep football teams, and Kewanee wasn't among them.

Also toppled from their lofty unbeaten perches were Oak Park, Chicago Amundsen, Normal and Georgetown.

Shattered, too, were major title hopes of Springfield, Anna-Jonesboro and East Aurora, but the biggest bump was heard at Galesburg.

There Kewanee's Boilermakers, after eight triumphs, were beaten while bidding for their 13th straight. They were slapped down 20-6 by a keyed-up Galesburg team which forgot it had been defeated three times and tied once in seven games. As a result, Galesburg won the Illini conference title and Kewanee shares northwest honors with Rock Island.

Unsatisfied with scoring one touchdown, halfback Bob Williams played defensive guard and repeatedly spilled Kewanee's famed Eddie Tunnicliff — holding the blond bombshell to no better than a 15-yard breakaway in a total of 74 yards in 17 trips. Galesburg outrushed its rivals 237 yards to 79 and led in first downs, 14 to 6.

After losing seven in a raw, Mattoon stunned unbeaten but twice-tied Georgetown, 12-6, and three others shared the Green Wave's giant-killer role.

Proviso Beats Oak Park

New Trier had lost two out of six, but beat Amundsen 21-0 to stop the Chicago north section champs at seven straight. Oak Park ended at the same milestone, 14-0. Once-tied Normal also lost its first in eight games, as well as the Cornbelt league lead. It bowed 26-6 to Bloomington Trinity.

Six of the Sweet 16 have finished the season, Taylorville, awaiting its Thursday mix with Champaign, and two others marked time before winding up their charts.

Champaign's Big Twelve conference aspirations skyrocketed after the Moyermen whipped Peoria Central 19-6 and Danville knocked fumbling Springfield out of the race, 12-0.

Decatur remained atop the league with a 20-0 conquest of Peoria Manual, but Champaign would gain the gonfalon if Decatur loses Saturday at Bloomington or Nov. 25 to Springfield. Bloomington's 27-0 flattening of Streator, one of three non-league masters of Decatur, heartened Champaign.

Keep Pace With Champaign

Keeping pace with Champaign among the nine undefeated but once-tied outfits was Springfield Lanphier. The Lions wound up 40-0 over Jacksonville and stowed away the Central loop honors.

Anna-Jonesboro went title-hungry for the 20th year when Murphysboro's Red Devils bagged the Southwestern Egyptian banner 13-6, from the Wildcats.

East Aurora's Tomcats were ousted from the Big Eight race, 7-6, when Freeport won its fourth straight. This permitted West Rockford to cope the crown despite its 19-19 deadlock with Elgin.

Five perfect records were stretched to include eighth victories. Libertyville claimed the Northeast championship with a 37-13 windup over Niles, and LaGrange controlled the West Suburban race after trimming Maine 19-0. Wendell Phillips iced the Chicago Central section chase as Dusable collapsed 36-0.

East St. Louis and Belleville easily mopped up Collinsville and Edwardsville in their march toward their Southwestern title match Nov. 25.

Reaching 23 games without defeat since 1940, Carlinville's coleaders with Taylorville in the South Central doused Pana 16-6, for their sixth of the year. Belleville Cathedral was the sixth victim, 6-0, of Marquette's Explorers at Alton.

Committee to Probe Tule Lake Disorder

Tule Lake, Calif., Nov. 8 —(AP)—A state senate committee headed by Sen. Hugh Donnelly of Turlock today opens hearings, with permission of Army officials, to uncover the background of recurrent violence in the Tule Lake segregation center for 16,000 disloyal Japanese.

Senator Donnelly said the hearings will seek "the truth and no hearsay" and wil' be confined to first-hand information.

With heavily armed troops, some of them veterans of Pacific battle fronts, keeping watch, the segregation center was reported quiet yesterday.

As the investigation got under way, there was increasing evidence it would center to some extent around activities of the Buoku-Kai, the so-called Japanese military society described in official records as an arm of the Japanese military intelligence.

By "FRIDAY"

In the Ladies league at the Recreation alleys tonight, three teams are tied for first, Frazier Roofing, Phillips Bakery and Treins Jewelry. Each of these have 16 won and eight lost. Of the three, only Treins roll another top division squad, meeting Villiger Drugs, which is now tied with Skips Cafe, Manhattan Cafe and Roberts & Hess for second with 14 won and ten lost.

All the other top seven teams are meeting teams from the bottom half of the league, which will be trying to knock off the loop leaders.

On Friday night following the Major league, Ken Detweiler is staging a men's doubles in which you can pick your own partner, each bowler being allowed his full handicap.

In a match game at the Recreation alleys this week end, Dixon men's team had a rather easy time of it with Forreston, beating the out-of-towners 279 pins, 2580 to 2301. Schroeder turned in the best series for Dixon with 544 and Swift led Forreston with 528. Both high men had a 200 game the only two of the match, each hitting exactly 200.

A few weeks ago five Dixon men were challenged to a match by a team of girls from Sterling. They side-stepped it and to uphold the honor of Dixon five Dixon women bowlers took on the Sterling squad and each Dixon girl rolled more total pins than her opponent, the team total being 2242 to 1898. Jane Fischer was high for the locals with 472 and Bohnn led Sterling with 407.

The ten high bowlers of the Ladies' league at the Recreation tonight are as follows:

Helen Klein	157
Amanda Smith	155
Phyllis Carson	154
Adeline Myers	153
Eileen Means	153
Jane Fischer	150
Pearl Detweiler	149
L. Legore	147
Lucille Poole	147

This is the first chance the Monday night women have had at the dog house so we hope they're careful tonight for tomorrow some one of the ten high keglers will be put at the top of the list.

Wheaton College Quits Undefeated

Chicago, Nov. 8—(AP)—Three state coleges—Macomb Teachers, Elmhurst and DeKalb Teachers—end their football season this week end, but none has a chance to match Wheaton's final record of three wins, no losses and three ties.

Wheaton remained undefeated Saturday by playing a 6-6 deadlock with Elmhurst, the touchdown being made in the last quarter when Bill Schafer, rookie fullback, plunged over from the one-yard line. It was Wheaton's last game.

DeKalb rolled up its third triumph with a 12-0 conquest of Concordia while Illinois Normal bagged victory No. 2 by beating Wilson Junior College 26-6. Cornell of Iowa handed Macomb its third defeat of the season with an 18-12 decision.

Macomb faces Iowa Central at Pella, Ia., Friday night. Saturday's schedule sends Illinois Wesleyan to Indiana State, Elmhurst to DeKalb and Cape Girardeau, Mo., Teachers to State Normal.

The Elmhurst-DeKalb game originally was slated Oct. 2 but was postponed because of a polio quarantine at Elmhurst.

Notre Dame Proves Right to Be Rated Nation's Greatest

Defeat of Army Shows Perfection of Irish: Football News

New York, Nov. 8—(AP)—Seeing is believing.

Until Saturday we had kept our fingers crossed while reading how wonderful Notre Dame was in drubbing teams like Michigan, Navy and Georgia Tech, but after watching the Irish trounce previously unbeaten Army, 26-0, we hasten to jump aboard the South Bend band wagon.

The Frank Leahy-coached eleven deserves its ranking as the No. 1 college football team in the country primarily because of a great line, led by tackle Jim White, that clears the way for a host of quick-starting backs.

The Irish weren't perfect against Army. They lost two touchdowns because they got their signals mixed up on the Cadet two-yard-line early in the game and because no one got downfield to block for Johnny Yonakor when he snared a 68-yard pass from Johnny Lujack. These errors might have rattled another team, but the Ramblers overcame them wtih ease and its is doubtful if many in the crowd of 76,000 at Yankee Stadium realized they had slipped up.

The game supplied the answer to the question that puzzled fans all last week. How good would Notre Dame be without Angelo Bertilli,the passing wizard, who was transferred to the Marine camp at Parris Island? The answer, in the words of Lt. Col. Earl Blaik, Army coach, "Lujack is just as good as Bertelli."

All Lujack did was throw two touchdown passes, score a third himself, call the signals, do most of the punting and catch Carl Anderson from behind when the Army back seemed on his way to a score after intercepting a Lujack pass into the flat.

Should Finish Unbeaten

Unles all signs fail, the Irish should win their last three games against Northwestern, Iowa Seahawks and Great Lakes to become the first Notre Dame team since the Knute Rockne era to go through a season unbeaten and untied. They play Northwestern this week at Evanston, Ill.

Other outstanding developments of the weekend, excluding Western conference teams, were Navy's surprising 24-7 rout of Pennsylvania and Southern California's 10-7 defeat by the San Diego Naval training station. Both Penn and USC previously were unbeaten while the Trojans had failed to yield a point.

Dartmouth whacked Columbia 47-13; Brown staved off a late Yale rally to beat the Eli, 21-20; Holy Cros walloped Temple, 42-6, and Villanova, led by Al Postus, trempled Princeton, 45-22.

Duke slaughtered North Carolina State, 75-0, in the south as Georgia Tech steamrollered Louisiana State, 42-7, and Virginia thumped Maryland, 39-0. In the southwest the unbeaten but tied Texas Aggies downed Southern Methodist, 20-0; Rice beat Arkansas, 20-7; Texas Christian lost to Texas Tech, 40-20; and Tulsa, also unbeaten but tied, shellacked the Oklahoma Aggies, 55-6.

Outstanding games this weekend, in addition to Notre Dame-Northwestern include Cornel-Dartmouth, Navy-Columbia, Yale-Princeton, North Carolina-Pennsylvania, Army-Sampson Naval, Temple-Pen State, Illinois-Ohio State, Iowa-Minnesota, Wisconsin-Michigan, Camp Grant-Iowa Seahawks, Great Lakes-Indiana, Georgia Tech-Tulane, Virginia-Duke, Texas Aggies-Rice, and March Field-Southern California.

BIG TEN SITUATION

Chicago, Nov. 8—(AP)—W. H. Tom, asistant varsity coach at Indiana, had just finished scouting Great Lakes. He closed his note boo kand knitted his brows.

"We have to play Great Lakes Saturday," he remarked, "and that's a tough job to tackle a week before we meet Purdue. Purdue is idle this week and can sharpen up for us. If we didn't have Lakes coming up and had time to get some of our injured boys in shape, I believe we could beat Purdue. Don't get me wrong, now. We still may beat them."

The renewal of the ancient and bitter football feud Nov. 20 between the Hoosiers and Boilermakers will be of much more than statewide interest this year. The outcome undoubtedly will determine whether the Western conference championship is to be shared by Purdue and Michigan or owned outright by Michigan.

It has been some time since so much importance has been attached to the Purdue-Indiana meeting. The Hoosiers, in one stroke, could end Purdue's fine record (which would be a catastrophe in itself) and also pass the Western conference title over to Michigan intact.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Nov. 8—(AP)—Pigskin post-mortem: By this time the Army folks probably are calling it "the bitter T of General Leahy"...And, come to think of it, Johnny Lujack turned out to be a pretty good general even though he turned down an appointment to West Point to enter Notre Dame, as did Bob Kelly, the Irish freshman halfback... Too bad that the loss of Angelo Bertelli was (coa Leahy said) like taking the heart out of a man. Maybe that accounts for the heartless way the Irish kept on scoring after they had the game won...And poor old Duke, losing 32 men from the first squad and only beating North Carolina State 75-0...Navy's cheering section was lost in a fog on the way to Philadelphia—and apparently they brought th fog along for Penn to get lost in.

He changed the Marine defense after dreaming about it and Standle was held to 17 yards in ten tries...Wonder what sort of a nightmare the Fort Monroe, Va., coach had before Norm picked up 100 yards against his team last Saturday... Lieut. Looks Like Bears, Redskins Dec. 19

Chicago, Nov. 8—(AP)—It was just the other day that George Strickler, the National Football League's public relations director, was pointing out "we don't have many times games in our league". And then, Bingo...two ties on one day, a 7 to 0 ball game that's a scoreless deadlock for a half, and a 21 to 7 affair that's all even, 7 to 7, for two and a half periods.

Out of all yesterday's close competition only the Brooklyn Dodgers and Chicago Bears progressed. The Dodgers beat the Chicago Cardinals 7 to 0 for their first victory. The Bears whipped Green Bay, 21 to 7, and came within a hair's breadth of clinching their fourth straight western division championship.

The Washington Redskin's 14 to 14 duel with the Phil-Pitt Eagles didn't set the champions back any, however, for they passed the half-way mark in their schedule with a pretty substantial grip on first place in the east.

So the signs point quite definitely to a championship meeting Dec. 19 between the Bears and Red Skins again.

The Bears' sixth straight win, the only clean-cut decision of yesterday's games, was aided by Sid Luckman's 15th touchdown pass of the year, plus a 66 yard run by Ray McLean.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 8—Observance of Illinois' 125th. anniversary entrance into the federal union will be held throughout the state on December 3, Governor Dwight H. Green announced today.

Plans call for a huge celebration at Vandalia, where the first capitol building was constructed, and for other observances in various cities, including a statewide school tie-in. The celebration at Vandalia will be broadcast over a state radio hook-up of more than 20 stations.

The observance programs are being held under the sponsorship of the 125th Illinois Anniversary Commission, appointed by the 63rd. General Assembly to arrange and conduct the celebrations. The commission is made up of five members of the state senate, five members of the house and five others named by the governor. Senator George D. Mills, Chicago, is chairman.

"Casablanca Ferry"

By LT. (j.g.) JOHN A. MACAULEY

Overseas Correspondent, War Shipping Administration

Aboard an Army Transport Somewhere in the Pacific—(Delayed)—They call her the "Casablanca Ferry", this whopping big transport jammed with fighting men bound for the Pacific war fronts.

Casablanca was her last trip. But you could call her the Pago Pago Express or the Liverpool Fast Freight just as well. Like Barnacle Bill, she's been everywhere and seen everything. In peacetime she was a luxury flagship, prim and proper with white paint and brass. Today she's a sea-going tramp, wargrey, zig-zagging skittishly down the world to ports you'll never find on your maps.

She's carried more than 70,000 troops and passengers out of Asia and Panama, to Africa, Europe, Hawaii and Australia. She's carried axis prisoners and wounded from both sides of the war, and refugees.

Today she's sweeping across the Pacific with another cargo—fighting men for the democracies.

You can hear them below—the tinkle of the guitar and the Oklahoma twang singing "Pistol Packin' Mama" and the rattle of dice on an Army blanket.

The "Casablanca Ferry" is manned by the men who are freight handlers to the world today, the men of the United States Merchant Marine.

It's their job to get these troops onto the firing line and they are old hands at the business. Many of them swam away from other ships before they went town with a torpedo gash bleeding oil from their sides. There's always the possibility they may have to swim away from this one.

And to that end they drill their passengers in khaki every day in the technique of swimming away to fight again some other day. Every day as several thousand soldiers thunder up to the boat deck in abandon ship drill, the chief officer of the ship tells them over the loudspeaker system of the importance of getting up there in a hurry. They are told that they may die and some of their friends may die if they move at any less than top speed.

Under constant drill, these soldiers (many of them have never been aboard ship before) can assemble ready to abandon ship within five minutes.

They are given tips that merchant seamen know from hard experience:

Don't wear your helmet when you go over the side. It may break your neck.

If you jump, and don't jump as long as you can slide down a line, hold your cork life jacket down with one hand at the throat. The jacket floats. You go down. You may get a nasty rap under the chin.

Swim away as fast as you can. A big ship creates a large suction area.

If you can remember that, you may get a ride on another ship.

The skipper is on the bridge almost 24 hours a day as this ship enters the "hot" zone.

You can see this is a veteran crew and they have plenty of confidence that this ship will go through. They've gone through so much already.

The ship's storekeeper, Freddie Turnquist, 51, of San Francisco, was bombed a number of times at Dutch Harbor when Tojo's bombers had that port in their gunsights.

Harold Davis, 29, Chief Officer, of Pittston, Pennsylvania, played tag with the Japs from Samoa to Java and back to San Francisco's Golden Gate. He was riding a hot load of aviation gas and bombs, and the Japs caught up with him temporarily at Soerabaya. He hid behind a king post while they raked the ship with machine gun fire. But there were fatter targets ashore and that's why Davis can tell about it today.

Torpedo planes — about 50 of them—caught Third Officer William Misunas, 28, of Tamaqua, Pennsylvania, on the run from Iceland to Archangel. Misunas helped fight them off but a U-boat sent three torpedoes into them. He spent three days in a drifting lifeboat in the icefields near Nova Zumba until he was picked up by a corvette.

There is a steward aboard who asked me to withhold his name for "personal and matrimonial reasons" and I didn't press him any further. He has been torpedoed twice in the South Pacific, once in the Atlantic and sat out the whole Pearl Harbor raid behind heavy and safe packing cases.

He found out later they contained 30,000 tons of TNT.

This is a lucky ship, the merchant seamen say.

About December 7, she was loading supplies for troops in the Philippines. On Christmas Day, she put aboard women and children refugees and American wounded from Oahu. She carried Marines to Pago Pago, anti-aircraft units and a Negro labor battalion to Australia.

She outran two submarines in the Caribbean.

She carried troops to Scotland and brought back wives and families of Royal Canadian Air Force pilots being evacuated from the war zone.

Then came the Casablanca cruise, the high point in the lives of these merchant seamen who cross an ocean full of submarines with the same indifference that you dodge taxis on Fifth Avenue.

They came in with the second wave of transports to see the half-sunk hulks that weren't blessed with the same salty luck that follows the "Casablanca Ferry." While other ships got it on five subsequent runs into the North African port, the lucky transport rode in like a duck on a millpond.

These philosophical merchant sailors believe in the way of thought that "if you're gonna get it, you're gonna get it." But they're sure that they won't.

And steaming down these bright blue waters under the golden hot sun and through the tropic nights, even the troops (who were somewhat nervous at first) are impressed and a little lulled by these secure seamen who believe in their luck and their skill in their trade.

I find it pretty reassuring myself.

In Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

Hollywood's first lady — Mary Pickford—is about to realize her most cherished ambition—teacher in a school for stardom.

The famous little lady told me about today over the luncheon table at Pickfair where she announced, for the first time, the formation of the Pickford Players.

"I'm going to school youngsters for screen careers," she said. "They're going to live and work by my creed. The trouble with most youngsters in motion pictures today is that they try to eat the fruit of success before it's ripe on the tree."

There's no doubt that Mary Pickford, after 30 years of stardom, is probably the best qualified person in the world to conduct a school for stardom. And as the only feminine producer in Hollywood with her own releasing company, United Artists, she can give the Pickford Players a classroom worthy of their famous name.

Mary has a great many ideas about a school for stardom, but the most important role, she says, is that motion picture stars cannot expect privacy.

"They must dedicate themselves to the public," she said.

Mary should know. She gave her first interview as a child stage star at 5, has been living in a goldfish bowl ever since. Why, just the other day in a Canadian hotel, Mary said a maid brought her a telegram from her husband, Lieut. Buddy Rogers, a flyer in the Naval ferry command.

"I read your telegram," the maid said. "My—your husband loves you very much."

Mary laughed. "Privacy?"—you just can't have any when people know you're from Hollywood."

RIGID ROUTINE

Nucleus of the Pickford Players, Mary said, will be four or five youngsters, 15 to 17. She will cast them soon in her first production effort in seven years, the film version of the play, "Junior Miss." She wrote a check for $350,000 for the play, the highest price ever paid for a Broadway hit.

"I'm going to give those youngsters every opportunity to become stars," she said. "There will be a bonus for the most ambitious But they'll have to play the game according to my rules. There will be lots of study, no late hours, and a course of conduct on and off the screen. They must dedicate themselves to the theater — and the public."

The youngsters will be unknowns, although not necessarily without film experience. "I think there are hundreds of talented youngsters in Hollywood who are never given a chance," Mary said. "They're kept under contract, and never given anything to do, just to keep them away from rival companies."

Will Mary return to the screen herself when she starts producing from two to three pictures a year for United Artists? No, she didn't think so. At least she wouldn't work as both producer and star.

"I tried that once," she said. "It's too strenuous a schedule. I'll play a role only if we cannot find anyone else suited for the part. And then I'll step out as producer," she said.

SCARED STAR

Mary stepped in front of a movie camera for the first time in ten years recently for a Canadian War Bond short filmed at Universal studio. "And I was scared to death," she laughed.

No, she wasn't planning to have husband Buddy Rogers join her in the company when he returns from war.

"I don't think husbands and wives in business together is a good policy." Anyway, Buddy has an offer to join a rival producing comapny, she said, when the war is over.

OUT-STEELS STEELS

By adding three parts of the little-used element columbium to 97 parts of iron, metallurgists have developed an alloy tougher than steel. It has withstood tests at 1100 degrees Fahrenheit, a temperature at which ordinary steel would break.

Undertakers to Help Recover Ration Books

Washington, D. C., Nov. 8—(AP)—Undertakers have agreed to help the office of price administration recover the ration books of deceased persons, an OPA spokesman reports. Five associations of funeral directors, which together cover the country, have agreed to obtain addressed envelopes from local ration boards and leave one with the family of each deceased person.

Baby Baptised Aboard Ship in Lake Michigan

Chicago, Nov. 8—(AP)—A baptism on shipboard in the British naval tradition for children of officers took place on Lake Michigan yesterday and made tiny 10-month-old Ian Anderson, son of a Royal Canadian naval officer, "a baptized member of the kingdom of God and the Presbyterian church", in the words of the pastor.

The Rev. Kenneth Hildebrand, associate pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian church, officiated aboard a newly commissioned patrol craft anchored off the Naval Armory. Similar shipboard baptisms are quite customary in peacetime in the British navy, although less frequent in wartime, Dr. Hildebrand said.

Ian is a son of Lt. William and Mrs Anderson, both of whom took part in the baptismal service. Lt. Anderson is a technical officer at the plant where the ship was constructed.

Specialists Plan to Assist Smaller War Plants Setup

D. W. Walters, regional Director of Smaller War Plants Corporation, announced today that Rockford will be the starting point of the "Chicago Clinic Plan" called together by the Corporation to hear the problems of local manufacturers and to give them advice and assistance in such problems as may be preventing companies from enjoying the business for which they are equipped.

Questions will be put by local manufacturers to representatives of such agencies as War Manpower commission, WPB, Priority section, SWPC Loan Agent, SWPC Technical Advisory Service and to the procurement specialists of the Navy, Maritime, Quartermaster, Air Corps, Ordnance and other armed services.

Problems of manpower, finance, production and general procurement will be discussed as they apply to individual concerns. Regional and district SWPC men will assist manufacturers in following through on the advice given in the meetings.

Walters stated that: "There are still many, apparently, who do not fully realize the assistance available to them in the Smaller War Plants Corporation as set up by Act of Congress. Some have not had time to call nor have they been able to consult with the many agencies that can help them with their problems. We believe that in arranging these district meetings, the corporation can and will take the information and assistance direct to the plant that needs it.

Notice of the date and final arrangements will be published in a few days according to W. S. Craig, District Manager of SWPC at Room 722, Gas-Electric Building, Rockford.

Nation Already in Fascism's Clutches Says Noted Author

Jos. H. Flynn, Economist, Traces Plans Right up to White House

The blueprint of fascism for America already has been drawn in Washington, and the post-war question will not be whether this country will go fascist, but whether we can get rid of fascism, James T. Flynn, author and economist, told members of the Executive club of Chicago at a luncheon meeting Friday in the Hotel Sherman.

"We hear talk about hunting down the bund—a few hundred stupid fools parading around in Storm Trooper uniforms," Fynn said. "They weren't trying to bring fiscism here. They were trying to help Hitler."

Planned in White House

"Fascism is being planned in Washington, right in the President's office," Flynn charged, "by men who, though never approved by the voters and not accountable to congress, have wormed themselves into the inner ring of a great political party and now are running the country.

"You will hear considerable talk about preserving free enterprise. They all want to save capitalism. You can remember how Mussolini and Hitler talked about their new forms of freedom."

A group of lawyers and economists holding key positions in various governmental departments and bureaus, Flynn said, are the men who have planned a "brave new world" for America after the war.

End of Capitalism Seen

These men, he said, are convinced that capitalism is doomed. The dynamic element of that system, they claim, was investment of the people's savings—and, with technology matured, there will not be adequate investments any more. These men believe the capitalistic system has lost its power to grow and expand. They can see nothing in the future.

"Since the people can't place their money in investments," Flynn said, "these economists say the government must borrow the people's savings and invest them. Only their idea of investment really is spending.

10 to 20 Billion a Year

"Under this blueprint, the government must borrow 10 to 20 billion dollars annually from the people and spend it to keep free enterprise going. Three billion annually, such as we borrowed in the depression is not enough."

Flynn emphasized that by the end of the war the national debt probably will be at least 300 billions, and to pay the interest on this debt the nation must levy at least 9 billion dollars annually in taxes.

The largest national tax bill ever paid in peace time was in 1941 when American taxpayers paid 7½ billions for all government expenses. Flynn said one government economist had insisted the debt could reach 4,000 billion dollars and would create such income that it could be paid back in 40 years.

That would be 40 "easy installments" of 100 billions each in addition to the interest, Flynn said.

The planners then insist, the speaker declared, that congress must abdicate its power to appropriate and legislate. Power must be centralized in Washington and concentrated in the hands of the President, with congress voting blank check appropriations and blanket legislation, with the President supplying all details, according to this plan.

"These are not theories by irresponsible people," Flynn warned. "This is the brave new world planned for us right in the President's office by key men of the government."

He said the post war plan is being "sold to the people in a vast propaganda program" that already is bearing fruit, even among hard headed business men.

Debt Annihilates Democracy

"Fiscism doesn't come from other countries," Flynn declared. "Italy built its own fascism. Mussolini just moved in and took over. Germany had fiscism when Hitler came to power. Rather than face hard facts, countries have gone in for government spending until the debt breaks down democracy."

Flynn warned that "we have all the elements of fascism, with the added element of quasi-dictatorship" in Washington, and predicted that when government planners get through with free enterprise, "it will not be enterprise, and it will not be free."—Chicago Tribune.

New Deal is Dead Says Sen. Johnson, Dem., of Colorado

Westerner Fears Republican Landslide if Roosevelt Runs

Washington, D. C., Nov. 8—Asserting "The New Deal is through", Sen. Edwin C. Johnson (D., Colo.) has launched a drive to draft Gen. George C. Marshall, Army chief of staff, as the Democratic candidate for president in 1944.

The move is viewed here as another acknowledgment by a rapidly enlarging number of Democrats that resentment against the New Deal is growing throughout the country, as evidenced in the elections last Tuesday.

"Even a child knows that a political revolution comparable to the Harding landslide in sweeping this nation," Sen. Johnson said in a statement. "As Americans we ought to be interested in its causes and we should place country ahead of party.

Party Has a "Dead Corpse"

"The New Deal is through! If the Democratic party persists in hanging on to its dead corpse it will lose the senate, the house, and the governors of every northern and western state in the next election."

(Sen. Johnson's state has experienced the gradually rising Republican sweep. Four years ago both senators and all the representatives in congress from Colorado were Democratic. Now Johnson is the only Democratic senator and there is only one Democrat from the state in the house of representatives.)

"This is the time to draft men", Sen. Johnson continued. "In this grave crisis the Democratic party owes it to the people to draft Gen. Marshall for president. He is not a candidate and he will emphatically say so, but no patriotic American can refuse such a call.

Marshall Called Statesman

"George Marshall is not only a very great soldier and military leader; he is a fine Christian gentleman and a statesman in the highest concept of that much abused term. He has depth and he has capacity. He is firm and he is courageous. He has tact and he has the respect and confidence of the congress and the people regardless of party. He is the man of this tragic hour!"

Another Democratic senator, who would not permit use of his name, said Marshall is being discussed with increasing frequency as a likely candidate, especially in connection with Republican moves to nominate Gen. MacArthur for the No. 1 or No. 2 spot on the 1944 ticket.

Sen. Byrd Mentioned

Johnson's was the first mention of Marshall's name as a presidentia. possibility by a ranking member of the Democratic party. It puts the general in a very select company, for not many have had the temerity to suggest possible Democratic nominees in the face of what many consider an accepted fact—that President Roosevelt can renominate himself if he wishes.

Most prominently mentioned as a possible opponent in the convention against Mr. Roosevelt has been Sen. Harry Flood Byrd (D., Va.), a conservative and an old foe of the New Deal. Sen. Byrd has a large backing among southern Democrats and his conservative views have won him some support from norther leaders of the party.

Until a few months ago Vice President Henry Wallace was considered Roosevelt's heir in case the president decides to step down. Wallace's inability to hold his own state, Iowa, against the Republican landslide in 1942 however, is belived to have soured the president on him, not only as a successor, but even as a running mae in 1944. Iowa contributed to the general G. O. P. successes in 1942 by electing a Republican senator and making a clean sweep of representatives.

Latest evidence of the president's coolness was the reorganization of governmental agencies a short time ago which stripped Wallace of the power he held in the board of economic warfare.

A perennial possibility as a Democratic candidate for president, but again only if Roosevelt steps aside, is Paul V. McNutt, chairman of the war manpower commission, who was roughly pushed aside as the candidate for vice president in the 1940 convention because Mr. Roosevelt insisted on Wallace.

Harmon Shot Down on Day Before He Would Have Been Promoted

Headquarters of the U. S. 14th Air Force in China, Nov. 3 — (Delayed) —(AP) — Lt. Tommy Harmon was listed as missing in action today, an official account saying the All-American football player's P-38 Lightning was shot down Oct. 30 in a sky battle over Kiukiang, Yangtze river port southeast of Hankow.

The flight of Lightnings in which the former Michigan star was flying was attacked by 10 to 15 Zeros when the Americans divebombed shipping and docks at the port. Two of the Lightnings were seen to crash in flames and two others failed to return.

Harmon, who trekked his way to safety last April after he had bailed out of a bomber over a South American jungle, was to have received a promotion to first lieutenant on the day after he was shot down.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES'

"Adam and Fallen Man" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, November 7.

The Golden Text was, "Cease ye from man, whose breath is in his nostrils: for wherein is he to be accounted of?" (Isa. 2: 22).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Little children, let no man deceive you: he that doeth righteousness is righteous, even as he is righteous. He that committeth sin is of the devil; for the devil sinneth from the beginning. For this purpose the Son of God was manifested, that he might destroy the works of the devil" (I John 3: 7, 9).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "When speaking of God's children, not the children of men, Jesus said, 'The kingdom of God is within you;' that is, Truth and Love reign in the real man, showing that man in God's image is unfallen and eternal . . . Thus Jesus taught that the kingdom of God is intact, universal, and that man is pure and holy" (pp. 476, 477).

LAST Wednesday morning 461 Dixon high school students and teachers took advantage of a free offer. This particular offer had to do with health—part of a campaign against what has been one of the nation's number one killers. The enemy was tuberculosis and the attacking method this time was the use of the tuberculin skin test to determine the presence of the disease in its early stages or to determine what damage may have been done in the past by a mild unnoticeable attack.

THE students who were tested were required to have the written consent of their parents and the program was in no way compulsory. It is part of a county-wide project which will be carried on during the year. Every high school student in Lee county will have access to this free service right in their school buildings if doctors are available to give the test. Ashton pupils have already been given the tests earlier this fall.

OF THE 461 checked at Dixon last week, 56 showed a positive reaction. Now this definitely does not mean that there are that many cases of active tuberculosis in school; in fact the chances are rather high that there will not even be one case. What it does mean, however, is that these young people have at one time or another through their lives contracted a very mild form of the disease for a short time and the body was easily able to overcome the light attack.

IN ORDER to check on whether the case is serious or not and to see how much damage has been done these positive reactors are given a free X-ray examination either at the hospital or by physicians who are equipped to do the work. The picture is then read by an expert lung specialist and if there is any need of treatment it can be determined at once. For those who have a slight injury in the lungs due to a mild attack in the past, there is no treatment and no danger to themselves or others except that if they ever have any respiratory diseases it is important that the attending physician know of all these things which may help him in controlling the disease.

OF COURSE if there is an active case found it may be rather easily treated if found in the early stages which is possible only through the X-ray. And the knowledge is equally important to the students who would come in contact with the unsuspecting tuberculosis victim. For these two reasons the testing program ranks as one of the biggest things which is being done in the school health program.

HIGH school rather than grade youngsters are given the tests because the number of cases is greater in the high school and college groups than at other ages. The reason for this is the fact that the adolescents are the ones who are tempted to "burn the candle at both ends" and thus have less resistance than other groups.

HAVE you been wondering where the money comes from to pay for all this program? It's from those little penny harbingers of Christmas cheer—the Christmas Seal. Seventy-five per cent of the money which was taken in last year was set aside for this high school project! So, when you buy your Christmas Seals this Christmas, you may think of some students you know and feel that you are doing something to make their life healthier and freer from handicap. And now, as is always true during war times, there will be much more tuberculosis than under normal conditions.

BY THE way—the Christmas Seals this year are especially attractive and show the face of one of the most attractive little tots that you can imagine. The seals go on sale Nov. 22.

CREDIT for all this testing last Wednesday morning should go to several people—to all those who helped in obtaining the money last Christmas; to Marian Church, county tuberculosis nurse; to her assistant nurses the other morning at Dixon high school, and the attending physicians who in spite of the overload of war have been especially cooperative; to the home room teachers who spent considerable time teaching the students the merits of the skin test; and especially credit should go to four P.-T. A. mothers, Mrs. Wilson Dysart, Mrs. E. V. Mellott, Mrs. Leslie Smith and Mrs. Henry Lohse who stopped their morning's work to go to school and assist with the testing.

Allied Nations to Launch Big Relief Program Tomorrow

43 Countries Expected to Sign Pledge Tuesday in Washington

Washington, D. C., Nov. 8.—(AP)—The allied nations are going to have their first post-war baby tomorrow, expected to be the beginning of a large family.

USRRA—the first allied nations organization—will begin its official life at the White House when representatives of 43 nations and the French committee sign and United Nation Relief and Rehabilitation Administration agreement.

Organized to help the starved peoples of Europe and Asia get back on their feet after they are liberated, UNRRA is to provide a pool for the combined material resources and experience of all the allied nations.

Jointly, they plan to gather and direct the distribution of supplies needed to restore a hungry world to health and recovery.

President Roosevelt, the state department has announced, will beliver an address at the White House ceremony.

Meet at Atlantic City

Then the delegates, many of them foreign ministers, will go to Atlantic City, N. J., for UNRRA's first session Wednesday.

It is clear that Washington and the rest of the world are looking to Atlantic City to see how well UNRRA works—for it may set a precedent for that "general international organization" the Moscow declaration foresaw.

The organization of UNRRA parallels the informal way the allied nations have done business so far, except that it is to have a director general at the top.

Herbert H. Lehman, former head of the United States office of foreign relief and rehabilitation operations, is expected to be chosen for the chief post.

Day to day operations are to be met by a central committee of the big four—the United States, Great Britain, Russia, and China—which will be responsible to a council of all the nations.

Each participating country will have one member on the council, which by majority vote will determine the policy of the organization and consider decisions taken by the central committee when the full group is not in session.

The United States in addition to having members on the council and central committee and probably the director generalship, probably will be named to the special committee on supplies as one of the major producing nations.

Regional committees also are provided for under the agreement.

When NURRA selects its officers and perfects its organization it is expected to turn its attention at the first session to gauging the materials it will need and plotting distribution.

The international group will list the supplies its requires, but it will have no power to appropriate them from the member countries.

The agreement provides that "in so far as its appropriate constitutional bodies shall authorize, each member government will contribute to the support of the administration."

That means that in this country congress will have complete control over allocations to UNRRA.

Sweden Is Interested

Only allied and associated nations can be charter member of the administration, but the agreement opens the door to other countries.

Among the neutrals, Sweden already has expressed a wish to help in the huge project by appropriating a large sum for Danish relief.

Nations to be represented at Atlantic City are:

Allied nations — Australia, Belgium, Bolivia, Brazil, Canada, China, Costa Rica, Cuba, Czecho-Slovakia, Dominican Republic, El Salvador, Ethiopia, Great Britain, Greece, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, India, Iran, Iraq, Luxembourg, Mexico, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Nicaragua, Norway, Panama, Philippines, Poland, the Union of South Africa, the Soviet Union, the United States, and Jugo-Slavia.

Associated nations (those which broke diplomatic relations with the axis but did not declare war) — Chile, Colombia, Ecuador, Egypt, Iceland, Liberia, Paraguay, Peru, Uruguay, and Venezuela.

The French Committee of National Liberation also is sending a delegation.

RAILROADS HELP STRETCH PRECIOUS RATION POINTS

YOU have heard a good deal about the Illinois Central's performance in moving men and munitions toward Victory. But all the while this vital military movement is going on, essential "service of supply" to the home front continues uninterrupted.

With so many staple items and fresh meats rationed, the service of railroads in delivering unrationed fresh foods becomes increasingly important in the daily shopping of every housewife. This service helps balance wartime menus, helps stretch precious ration points.

By reason of its fortunate location, the Illinois Central taps not only the Gulf of Mexico, but also a full climatic range of farming regions. It carries unrationed foods from farms and groves, from ports and fishing wharves, to the waiting tables of hungry families all along the line.

Citrus fruits and bananas — coffee, cereals and vegetables—poultry and an extensive variety of seafoods—all are familiar items of Illinois Central traffic.

It is our hope that your Thanksgiving dinner table may be more bountifully laden because of the Illinois Central's part in bringing you these and many other good things.
